HBH offers TeleHealth Services

Home Bound Healthcare (HBH) utilizes TeleHealth Services as an additional method of monitoring the health of clients in the comfort of their homes.

TeleHealth technology is the latest in HBH's commitment to provide the most advanced services to our clients and their physicians.

What is TeleHealth?

TeleHealth is the delivery of health-related services and information via telecommunications technologies. HBH currently utilizes in-home telemonitoring services from Viterion.

When taking part in the TeleHealth Program, a telecommunications device will be placed in the home. The device collects important medical information and reports this data to HBH staff and the client's physician.

TeleHealth is easy to use, and provides peace of mind to clients, HBH clinicians and to the client's physician. In addition to being useful and convenient, these devices are offered at no cost to qualified clients. Please read on for more information.

Why TeleHealth is Important

If you have health problems, you know how important it is to have your health monitored and evaluated by a clinical professional on a regular basis.

TeleHealth takes the waiting out of the process. By utilizing TeleHealth Services, a client may rely on TeleHealth to communicate important health information automatically.

By catching health abnormalities that are communicated via the telecommunications devices, HBH clinicians and client physicians can act fast to remedy any problems that may occur.

Through the use of TeleHealth Services, we are providing our clients with care using the most advanced and cutting-edge technology.

Early Intervention

When client health information is regularly monitored every day, the clinician and physician can detect and address worrisome health trends before they become serious. Clients can rest assured that medical professionals are receiving daily updates on their most important health information, allowing for the earliest possible intervention.

How it Works

The process begins by an HBH clinician placing a telecommunications device in the client's home.

The device will collect a variety of vital signs, including:

- Heart Rate
- Blood Pressure
- Oxygen Saturation
- Body Weight
- Body Temperature

In addition to collecting the important vital signs listed above, the devices are also equipped with glucose monitors, spirometer or peak flow meters to measure lung function, PT/INR systems to record blood clotting times, and ECG devices to monitor heart rhythms.

The data is transmitted via telephone line or through digital wireless technology over a virtual private network for review by the client's personal Home Bound Healthcare Nurse.

Health.*

Your Privacy

Your privacy is very important to us.

All health information communicated through the TeleHealth device is transmitted through secure and private phone lines or VPN.

Clients using TeleHealth Services can rest assured that their personal information is just that: personal and private.

Also, there is no cost involved with transmitting your health information.

Services Offered at No Cost to Qualified Clients

TeleHealth Services are provided by HBH at no cost to qualified clients.

This includes set-up of the device, transmission of data, and the monitoring of the health information that is received. There are no hidden fees. TeleHealth is a 100% free service to those who qualify.

Secure and private, at no cost to the client.

Easy to Use

Clients are usually amazed when they discover how simple the TeleHealth system is to use.

The small monitoring unit is easily brought into the client's home. It is no larger than most clock radios and conveniently plugs into an electrical outlet. Health information can be communicated through the client's existing phone (at no cost to the client) or through a wireless adapter which is provided and set up by HBH.

Additional Convenient

Features of TeleHealth

- 13 Languages Available
- Large Display Screen
- Verbal and visual prompts from the monitoring unit guide the client through the process each day
- Process takes only minutes to complete each day!

Ease of use, accuracy, and patient convenience is the hallmark of Home Bound Healthcare's TeleHealth Service.

Benefits for Clients

The benefits of taking part in HBH's TeleHealth Program are substantial. The ultimate goal is to remain healthy, in the home and to prevent hospital and emergency room visits.

A client's physician will set a range of limits for the vital signs of each user. If any of these limits are broken, an alert is sent to the client's personal HBH Nurse. By using this state-of-the-art process, even the slightest abnormalities can be immediately detected and addressed, preventing hospital stays and potentially larger problems.

Clients become more aware and involved

It has been found that clients become more aware of their conditions when taking part in a home telemonitoring program.

Clients see firsthand how their diet, activity and other factors impact their health. This advanced technology empowers each client with daily feedback regarding their health status and gives them the ultimate control with managing their health-related issues.

Benefits for HBH and Your Physician

When a client takes part in HBH's TeleHealth Program, the client is not the only one that benefits!

Physicians love in-home telemonitoring because it is an effective tool that can assist them in managing chronic illnesses.

The use of telemonitoring also reduces emergency room visits and repeat hospitalizations by quickly identifying worrisome health factors before they become critical.

Helping HBH Help You!

At Home Bound Healthcare the goal is to keep clients healthy, independent and in their own homes.

TeleHealth helps meet this goal by providing quick, up-to-date health information regarding HBH clients. It is a positive program for all involved.
