

HOME BOUND HEALTHCARE HELPING THOUSANDS

GROWING COMPANY SERVES ILLINOIS, IOWA, NEVADA

Home Bound Healthcare's executive team, from left: Romy Macasaet Jr., president; David Rine, executive administrator; Hillel Liberman, administrator; Paul Lebedinsky, assistant executive administrator; and Robert Springer, chief financial officer.

Home is where everyone wants to live...as long as they can.

Transforming that dream into reality is the goal of Flossmoor, Ill.-based Home Bound Healthcare Inc.

Founded by Nurses

Founded in 2004 by two registered nurses, Romy Macasaet Jr. and Julieta Mitra, the company provides nursing, rehabilitative and supportive care—all in its clients' homes—from 10 locations in Illinois, Iowa and Nevada. Business operations are headed by Executive Administrator David Rine; and clinical operations by President Romy Macasaet Jr.

Providing home health and private duty services, Home Bound employs 350 and has charted an ambitious growth path, says Robert Springer, chief financial officer. It's one of five in a group of related companies. The others provide outpatient rehabilitative therapy, medical equipment and supplies, staffing agency services for medical offices and hospitals, and healthcare management.

Award-winning Company

Certified through the Community Health Accreditation Program and the Joint Commission, Home Bound earned top honors when its two eligible agencies were named to the 2007 and 2008 HomeCare Elite, in part based on level of care. Home Bound accepts payment from Medicare, Public Aid, most private insurance companies and private pay.

Home Bound joined the Spiris team last winter. "We got a cold call," Springer says. "We set up an appointment with Dave Hutchison and were expecting a phone call, when he showed up in our office. We felt that really showed he was interested in us."

Hutchison also knew the home healthcare industry, Springer says. "And the rates were much more affordable than what we had been paying."

Home Bound Healthcare,
www.HomeBoundHealth.com